	Services offered: The IAS Water Quality Skimmers is a floating device for erosion and sediment control applications, which releases/drains the downstream surface water slowly from ponds, sediment traps or basins at a controlled rate flow. It skims clean water from the surface of sediment retention traps/basins where the water contains the least amount of suspended solids instead of draining from the bottom where sediment concentrations are their highest, and sends it to a riser or the backside of a dam. Skimmer basins may be used in areas that are near high quality waters, buffer zones, environmentally sensitive areas, and/or sensitive watersheds, and in areas where drainage areas are too large for a basin with a standard rock weir.
