Snail Order Form

The Snail license is for stand-alone use on one computer at a time. The license is managed by a software security dongle. You may install the software on computers within your organization. The software security dongle will allow the software to run only on the computer with the dongle attached.

If the software security dongle is lost, we don't offer a replacement dongle.

Before purchasing and installing the software, you must read and agree with the Snail End User License Agreement, which can be downloaded from the Caltrans Snail webpage.
