

From the Archives

Then-Gov. Ronald Reagan, left, was on hand for the dedication of the San Diego-Coronado Bay Bridge on Aug. 3, 1969, linking the mainland to the resort city. Then-San Diego Mayor Frank Curran joined Reagan at the ceremony. The bridge marked an end to the ferry service that brought visitors to Coronado.

