Featured Topic: Pathways to Transportation Opportunity

Calmentor offers a pathway to transportation opportunity for small firms through one-on-one mentoring with larger, more established firms, education on best practices for teaming readiness, and industry and public agency networking. We facilitate candid discussions in support of Calmentor’s goal to expand the pool of highly qualified firms available for Caltrans and transportation agency partner A&E projects. Come participate in the July meeting discussion on transportation opportunities for small firms. What are your successes in the procurement and contracting processes? What have been your challenges? Caltrans DPAC and the Office of Civil Rights will participate in the discussion led by the Calmentor Steering Committee.

Plus: 21-22 Public Agency Financial Outlooks

The COVID-19 health pandemic has been a challenging time for public transportation agencies. Delayed projects...declining revenue streams...unspeakable human tragedies. As the California recovery continues, come learn from Caltrans District 4 and regional public agency partners about how they are faring today and their outlook for the coming year.
