Snail Order Form

Snail license is for stand-alone use on one computer at a time. The license is managed by a software security dongle. You may install the software on computers in your organization. The software security dongle will allow the software to run only on the computer with the dongle attached.

Replacement software security dongle is available if you lost the dongle. The lost software security dongle will be deactivated upon the shipment of the replacement dongle.

Before purchasing and installing the software, you must read and agree with the Snail End User License Agreement, which can be downloaded from the Caltrans Snail webpage.
