Subject: Revision to February 3, 2003, Relocation Impact Documents Memo

The attached memorandum has been revised to eliminate the second paragraph.

The purpose of the memo was and is to remind all of our staff involved in the preparation of Relocation Impact Documents as to the process and extreme sensitivity of our contacts with residents potentially impacted by proposed transportation projects. Avoidance of creating unnecessary anxiety, misunderstandings or concerns is always a primary goal.

The paragraph eliminated was really not necessary to further the purpose of the memo, and more importantly it contained an inaccurate description of the situation referred to.

Subject: Relocation Impact Document Survey Processes

This memorandum is being provided to all Region/District Right of Way (R/W) Offices and Environmental Offices to clarify the process for conducting surveys in preparation of Relocation Impact Documents (RID).

Agents are reminded that interviews and/or surveys are generally only conducted when preparing the final RID, after the preferred alternative has been selected. Personal interviews are then preferred, but in rare cases surveys can be mailed out with an adequate explanation of the purpose of the survey and how to complete it. Only in extremely rare circumstances should interviews or surveys be conducted at the draft RID phase, and only when "a significant number of the displacees have special needs as to finding suitable replacement property" (10.02.05.03 & 10.02.05.05).

Please ensure that all agents preparing RID's are familiar with the required RID manual survey processes and the need to be clear in their communications with property occupants.
